Book of FCC Stories

Send in YOUR story...

All members are encouraged to participate.

Man-Li Lin, ten year instructor of the FCC-LI Chinese Heritage and Language Program, invites you to participate in this landmark project.

The Project:

National Publisher in Taiwan is interested in published one of my books and After I a recent discussion with the president of National Publisher in Taiwan, we are planning to publish a book of our childrens' stories.

Eight years ago, I collected some articles from our students of our school's first two classes. After so many years, and with so many more members, I think we should have enough stories to compile a book for publication.

This will be the best book to remind our children how they came to US, how they have been loved and raised. The book will be printed in both English and Chinese (I will translate to Chinese.).

The Process:

For parents: You can submit as much as you would like, in any style. The publisher and I will decide how to present this book once until I collect all the articles. I think we will have some pages in color for the photos so please prepare at least two family photos that one was when the girls just came to US and one is most recently taken, (then and now).

I need time to translate the articles so you can send me what you already have and write more in the summer. I hope this will be your summer project for the whole family. Maybe you can set up a weekly evening to have a family writing time. I hope I can most of the stories at the end of August and we can get the book published before Christmas so we can have the best gift for the holiday season.
